

View of the situation during and after the works on the ground floor level

The vestibules (previously used for storage) and the covered outdoor areas are restored to their original structure. The chosen materials and new doors are contemporary designed in the context of the existing spaces, referring to the historical colour pattern and noble materials that were historically used in the building.

On the right, the renovated entrance vestibule as well as the publicly accessible ground floor area currently used for exhibitions

Construction image © Jeroen Verrecht
All other images ©Stijn Bollaert

